

CD Review Quotes for Ancient Pines

"Pleasing set . . . The saxophonist is great . . . no wasted notes . . .
Compelling music . . . This is fine, satisfying stuff."

Jason Bivins—Cadence

"Agile minds . . . O'Dell is an open, lyrical player who can unfurl a wide range of ideas at a dizzying pace . . . appealing atmosphere . . .
flows beautifully . . . O'Dell designs hypnotic concepts that capture the imagination . . . indelible spirit."

Jerry D'Souza--All About Jazz

"This recording confirms the hopes we had placed on [O'Dell] . . .
Probing excursions . . . On soprano, [O'Dell] skillfully avoids the saccharine tone that mars too many saxophonists . . . fiery dialogues .
. . . contemplative and lyrical communions . . . seamless and breezy . . .
solid outing." Alain Drouot--Chicago Jazz Institute

"Lovely chamber jazz . . . They swing, experiment, solo comfortably, swing some more and interpret with creative passion . . . O'Dell soars lyrically with alto and soprano melodic sketches. Carrying a blues foundation and providing plenty of room for spontaneity, the program connects intuitively with the audience . . . exotic flavors . . .
They create impressions that let their audience travel through time and space." Jim Santella --All About Jazz

"Quality of music is excellent . . . 'Rise and Fall' is a beautiful ballad that displays both Tim O'Dell's wonderful tone on soprano sax and Aoki's big, fat bass notes . . . unhurried duo musical communication .
. . . good soloing by the horns and swinging bass lines . . . 'Old Growth' is stunningly beautiful."

Francis Lo Kee--All About Jazz New York

"Unusual and well crafted . . . memorable . . . O'Dell and Aoki in top-notch form . . . creative sounds . . . remarkable
. . . smooth, mellow approach which is enjoyable. . .
'Ancient Pines Suite' is intense in scope and presentation, and there is much good to say about it, and its thematic structure. [Ancient Pines Suite] is a strong entry for anywhere and anytime . . . Wide base of appeal . . . a fine example of what can be creatively expressed . . .

wide range and a wide scope, and it entertains . . . straight-ahead stylings add to its brilliance. Highly recommended jazz fusion!"
Lee Prosser--Jazz Review.com

"O'Dell has a rich timbre and consistent vision . . . compelling terrain." Marc Masters—Jazz Times

CD Review Quotes for Before My Life

"A young, new master of the saxophone has arrived, and his name is Tim O'Dell . . . Before My Life is what contemporary jazz is all about and is a showcase of perfect performances."
Lee Prosser --Jazz Review

" . . . Unexpectedly grand . . ."
Lloyd Sachs --Chicago Sun Times

"Elton Dean. Tim Berne. Tim O'Dell. Welcome to the exclusive club of outstanding sax players/composers/improvisers . . . a perfect album . . . This disc is a great blend of composition and improvisation and it swings! . . . Before My Life has a uniqueness of vision. O'Dell is the composer of Chicago." --Beyond Coltrane

" . . . A thinking man's player and composer . . ."
Owen Cordle --JazzTimes

"This is a really fine recording, generous in terms of playing, with considered compositions and a ton of spirit."
Jason Bivins --Cadence

" . . . Meditating on alto, Tim sounds like Trane did on Central Park West . . ." John Barrett --Jazz USA

"This is the sound of . . . expanding American art."
James Nichols --All About Jazz

" . . . A fine new voice on alto . . . loose and swinging and broadly expressive . . ." Stuart Broomer --Cadence

CD Review Quote for Red Fire Ant Trio: Live In Iowa City

"A trio of saxophone, bass and drums can opt for raw power or the potential for clarity that inheres in the form. This one opts for clarity, for spare rhythm in support of O'Dell's brisk linearity. The approach is rewarding on "Slow" and "All Things" when O'Dell's repeating phrases and strongly modal lines seem to fuse with Pavkovic and Aoki. O'Dell is a conscientious craftsman, a disciplined player with a strong sense of construction in his solos . . ."

Stuart Broomer---Cadence